VOLUME EIGHT

MRS. J. A. CAMPBELL

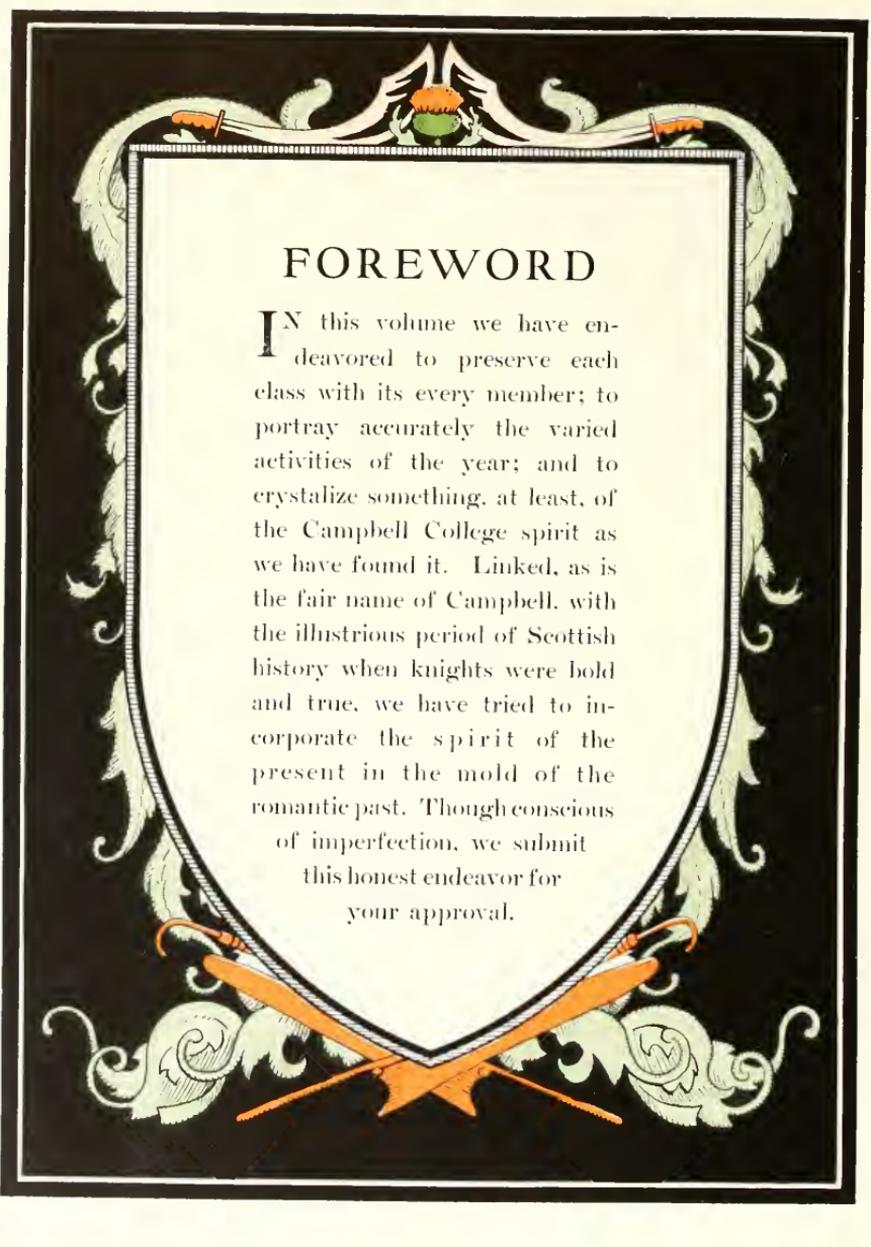

THE influence of an inspired life, though quiet and unassuming, encourages and ennobles those who are touched by it. Because of our confidence in such a life, and because of the debt of love and gratitude we owe to one who has so inspired us, we dedicate this, the 1929 volume of

PINE BURR

To

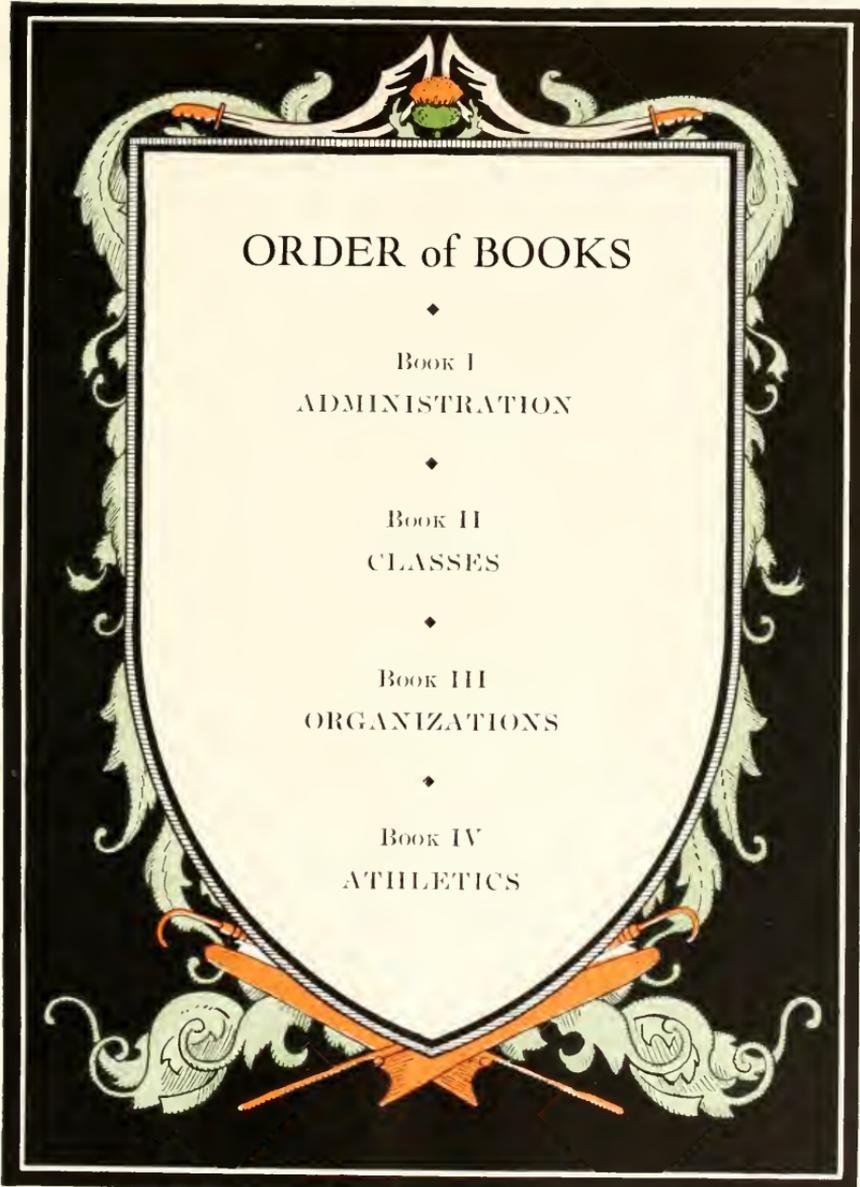

MRS. J. A. CAMPBELL

DEDICATION

The page is framed by a decorative border. At the top center is a crest featuring a green helmet with a red crest, flanked by two crossed swords with red hilts. The shield itself is white with a black border and contains the text. The shield is surrounded by ornate, light-colored floral and scrollwork patterns. At the bottom of the shield, two crossed swords with red hilts are positioned horizontally.

FOREWORD

IN this volume we have endeavored to preserve each class with its every member; to portray accurately the varied activities of the year; and to crystalize something, at least, of the Campbell College spirit as we have found it. Linked, as is the fair name of Campbell, with the illustrious period of Scottish history when knights were bold and true, we have tried to incorporate the spirit of the present in the mold of the romantic past. Though conscious of imperfection, we submit this honest endeavor for your approval.

Class Poem

*O Time! Too fickle far thy state,
Thy ever restless wings too swift
To judge us fairly now—but wait
Until this world has had our gift.*

*Thy pages tell of wrongs we've done,
Of faults we've had, beyond control;
O, blot them out, yes, one by one,
And give us now a fresh, pure scroll.*

*Time, help us build our shrine on high,
A spot where love forever dwells
Where burns the torch to passers-by
Who leave before life's prison cells.*

POET.

THOMAS EARL JORDAN
TYNER, N. C.

Eu.

English Critic in Society, '27 and '28; Secretary of Society, '28; Treasurer of B. Y. P. U.; Member of Honor Society.

"The Power of thought—the magic of the mind."

Like Zaccheus, Earl is easily lost in the multitude because of his short stature. It is perhaps his low stature that has suggested to his fertile mind a very plausible excuse for his defects in reading; viz, a short tongue. But even if he be lost in a crowd he would not long remain hid. Before a great while a broad smile would break the judge-like sternness of his face, which is to serve notice that Earl is about to add some bright remarks to the conversation. Though not prodigal with his comments, what he does say is usually original in expression, pungent, and apropos, leaving you with the feeling that there's a hat full of information left.

Dependable, loyal, thorough in his preparation, likeable—these are some of the qualities that have won for him a place in that very select group, the honor society.

CONSTANCE J. MIDKIFF
MOUNT AIRY, N. C.

Sappho

President Sappho Society, '28, '29; President B. Y. P. U., '28; Latin Club, '28; B. S. U. Council, '29; Honor Society, '29; Editor Pine Burr, '29; Secretary, Debate Council, '29; Intercollegiate Debater, '29.

"You have deserved High commendation, true applause, and love"

Not a clown, not a prude, but a mixture of common sense, purposefulness, and "go-to-it." And for dessert, she has a "delicious" sense of wit and originality, which makes her company a pleasure.

That "Connie's" stay with us has not been entirely a holiday may be seen from her list of activities and honors. Faculty and students alike have learned to rely upon her to get things done in an efficient way. Not the least of her achievements is the editorial work of this Pine Burr.

And still ambition calls. She's going to study medicine! Do you doubt but that success is just around the corner?

HOWARD GARDNER
ANGIER, N. C.

Phi

B. V. P. U. Director, '29; B. S. U. Council, '29; Vice-president Society, '28; President Harnett County Club, '28; Football, '27, '28; Basketball, '27-'28-'29; Track, '28-'29; Mgr. Pearson Building, '29; Intercollegiate Debater, '29.

Howard applies this year for his second diploma from his alma mater, having received two years ago the certificate for high school graduation. During his three years here he has inscribed his name high in the student's hall of fame. While not the most brilliant student in the class of '29, his contribution to the extra-class activities on the campus hardly finds a parallel. He has been an ardent worker in the literary society, winning distinction for himself and his Society. As president of the B. V. P. U. this year, he has brought to a climax years of active service in the religious life of the institution. But probably his brilliant record on the basketball court for three years and his fighting spirit on the football field for two seasons have endeared him most to his fellow students. Voted by the student body to be the "best athlete"; elected frequently to represent his society; entrusted with the leadership of the largest student religious organization; thus Campbell stamps Howard as an all-round manly fellow.

Astro

Section Secretary B. V. P. U., '28; Member Dramatic Club; President Y. W. A., '29; Circle President Y. W. A., '28; Secretary Honor Society '29; President Astro Society, '28; Member Annual Staff, '28; Intercollegiate Debater, '29.

"Skill will enable us to succeed in that which sheer force could not accomplish."

Here is one girl that will be sorely missed on the campus. Her willingness to help a struggling classmate, to serve unselfishly on numerous committees, to champion every righteous course has won for her during her four years here an increasingly important place in student councils. Despite her youthful appearance and almost childish simplicity in her manners, she has demonstrated a wisdom and soberness of judgment becoming one much older.

That Esther is one of our most capable girls is proven by the distinction she has won. In scholarship she ranks with the chosen few. As President of the Y. W. A., she has demonstrated marked executive ability, as well as the faculty to prepare interesting programs. Her high ideals, cheerful disposition, and scholarship make a character indeed worthy of a true girl.

FRED BLOUNT

ROPER, N. C.

Basketball, '27, '28; Baseball, '28; Vice-President B. Y. P. U., '28; Basketball, '28, '29; Baseball, '29.

"To truth's house there is a single door which is experience."

"Red" hails from the lowland county of Washington. After shipping for a term with Uncle Sam's Navy from coast to coast, he decided that his preparation for life was incomplete without another sip from the pie-ran spring. He possesses a mind ever hungering for knowledge, finding a source of interest even in art. Like one who knows that he knows, "Red" carries with him an air of self-confidence that might be mistaken for conceit. He possesses more than ordinary ability to discover truth and has the courage to advocate his own point of view.

Fred's interest in life is many-sided. He is a good athlete, particularly brilliant as a basketball guard. His fine physique, developed probably in the Navy would fit him in the ring, should his ambitions lead him in that direction. Furthermore, Fred has found an attraction at the girl's dormitory that takes up a part of his leisure hours.

MILDRED REBA MILLS

APEX, N. C.

Sappho

President in B. Y. P. U., '28; Mid-term Debater, '28; Chairman of B. Y. P. U. Extension Work, '28, '29; President Volunteer Band, '29; Circle Leader Y. W. A., '28; President Sappho Society, '28; B. S. U. Council, '29.

"If here there's a will, there's a way."

Anything hard to be done? Tell Reba. She's not afraid of hard work; we'll almost dare to say she enjoys it. She'll shoulder a burden with a smile and apply the "elbow grease" with a vim. Her courage plays a large part in getting for her the important places she holds in our midst. A determination like hers, backed by such high ideals, can't help but make the world sit up and take notice.

But Reba doesn't court dullness by over-working. Her "pep" asserts itself in college life outside the classroom. If you doubt her "boosting" proclivities, mention Wake County. She is not adverse to social life. (She particularly likes red hair.)

TIMOTHY FRANCIS SAVAGE
TEACHY, N. C.

Eu

President Sophomore Class, '29; Honor Society, '29; Football, '28, '29; Secretary Eu. Society, '29; Manager Football, '29; Intermediate B. Y. P. U. Leader, '29; Sports Editor Pebbles, '29; Treasurer Eastern North Carolina Club, '29; Intercollegiate Debater, '29.

"I dare do all that becomes a man;

If he dares do more is none."

"Tim" gets our nomination for combining most happily the physical, intellectual, and spiritual side of life. He has employed well his powerful physique on the football field for two years, winning the admiration of friend and foe. At the same time, his scholastic record for last year entitled him to membership in the honor society. In the religious life he has participated also, taking active part in B. Y. P. U. and Sunday School.

His extra-class activities have been numerous and varied, testifying further to his capability. He has been an aggressive president of the class of '29, winning the respect of the entire college in this commanding position. That he has dramatic ability is proven by his part in the Senior Class play of this year. While he has not had much time for society work, he speaks with positiveness and convincing tones. Such a record has won for him the highest esteem of everybody.

"Virtue is increased by the smile of approval,

And the love of renown is the greatest incentive to honorable acts."

From the hills of "Ole Virginny" a lucky wind has blown a girl of dignity, pep, and talent into our school. With her cheerful, winsome ways and her ability to lead in her school work, in her society, and in the social and religious activities, we begin to think that she is just that kind of girl who can tackle almost anything and make a good job of it.

The old adage that a person of note will never remain in the background has been proved to us by this girl, who has so quickly won distinction in the music department and in society work, as well as in the literary department. She finds a place for service among her fellows.

So here's to the girl whom Campbell College is proud to call her own.

WILLIAM LARKIN LYNCH
WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.

Phi

Supervisor of Society, '29; Secretary of Society, '28; Commencement Declaimer, '28; Commencement Orator, '29; President Ministerial Conference, '28; B. S. U. President, '29; Sunday School President, '28; Vice-President B. Y. P. U., '28; 2nd Vice-President B. S. U., '28; Vice-President Sophomore class, '29.

"The need if life is not knowledge, but action."

If there is one member of the class that is liked and honored by all who know him, it is William. He has shown his determination to get an education by working his way behind the barber's chair. He is at the same time an excellent student and society worker. While deprived of the chance to participate in athletics because of his outside duties, he is a loyal booster of all college activities.

William's ambition is to become a preacher, and he is preparing himself for the weightier tasks ahead by being faithful in the smaller tasks at hand. His readiness to serve and his ability may be seen in the B. Y. P. U., in the councils of the B. S. U., and elsewhere when the call for help comes. Such devotion to duty will certainly bring its reward in after years.

BERTHA WOODRUFF

THELMA, N. C.

Sappho

Secretary Society, '29; Treasurer Y. W. A., '29; English Critic Society, '28; Secretary B. Y. P. U., '29.

*"Her voice was soft and low,
An excellent thing in a woman."*

Her words, "like nature half reveals and half conceals the soul within." Here's a girl, who might have employed her personal charms to become a leader in the social life of the institution, if she had so desired. Her very quiet self-effacing disposition, however, prefers hard work to attracting attention, and for that reason she is usually busily engaged with her books.

Underneath this outward reserve and modesty Bertha possesses some of the finest traits of true womanhood. Dignity and poise characterize her course when all around is in the turmoil and confusion. She is loyal to her friends, persistent in her efforts, and successful in her achievements. She brought with her to this institution two years ago the unqualified praise of her high school instructors; she carries away this same record unswayed. We are glad to claim her membership in the class of '29, and wish for her "good luck."

GEORGE PRESTON CULLIPHER

Football, '27; Assistant Manager Football, '28; Track, '28; Secretary Society, '28; Anniversary Debater, '28; Vice-President of B. Y. P. U. Section, '29; Opera, '28; Class Testator, '29.

"I had rather have a fool to make me merry Than experience to make me sad."

George is a fellow that is never down and out. He possesses a rare sense of humor and an equal amount of wit. A frequent saying of his is that there are only three fools (in the Shakespearean sense) in Bertie County and he is two of them. George is a great booster of athletics, being cheer leader and manager of the 1928 football team. In this respect we all envy him, for last Thanksgiving Coach Hays included him at the annual turkey dinner for the team. They say George got three pounds of turkey, and two days sea-sickness. He has the same rapacious appetite for studies; in music he has a bright future. He stands for what Campbell College stands for, and is liked and respected by all.

"By repeated blows even the oak is felled."

From the first we are impressed by her sweet, modest disposition; she is just the kind of a girl one likes for a friend, for she will stick by you through thick and thin.

On better acquaintance the bond of friendship is strengthened by her loyalty to duty and willingness to help every worthy cause. What she lacks in brilliancy, she strives to make up for with sheer pluck and hard work.

Judging by her record with us at Campbell College, we are confident that she will win in life's long struggle the prize by her hard work and persistence.

"Constancy is the basis of virtue."

Embodying the spirit of the Western hills, Susie is ever civil, kind, sturdy and always ready to do her bit. Hard work has won for her its meed of honor. She is a good student, because she takes her work seriously and at the same time finds a great pleasure in studying.

That Susie holds in the hearts of her classmates a high place is proven by her selection as secretary of the B. S. U. Council. Wherever you put her, you can count on her to fill her place to the best of her ability.

As we associate with her we are reminded of the old Greek myths that tells of the daughters of Zeus musing over a small bit of clay and wondering what should be done with it. They decided at last to make one who should be fair, modest and intelligent. They blended in the clay the upright, sterling qualities of girlhood in such a way as to create a future leader of people—thus we have Susie.

Secretary B. S. U. Council, '28; Vice-President Class, '28; Supervisor Society, '28; Secretary Class, '29; Vice-President Society, '29; Secretary Society, '28; Alternate Inter-Collegiate Debater, '29.

"I hear, yet say not much, but think all the more."

Calmly this girl directs her course thru life's most stormy day. Equanimity and poise are readily outstanding characteristics in her nature. In fact, so quietly does she scale the rocky peaks of knowledge, that you may not observe her at first. Everything she does is a "mess," Audrey says, which assertion proves only her unassuming nature. She wastes few words, and gives little time to the less important frivolous side-shows of student life.

But the picture is only half finished. Underneath this modesty lies courage, good sense, and marked ability. In fact, she is easily one of the leading members of her class. Her scholarship, dependability and service to her alma mater have won for her a place in the honor society. This position of eminence in student life was gained while others slept during the night.

*"Turn him to any cause of policy,
The Gordian's knot of it he will unloose."*

This distant descendant of the first Adam appears to know something about everything that has happened since the creation. Examine him on Biology, English, or any other subject in his course, and you will be surprised with his breadth of understanding. This fund of knowledge he makes to serve him effectively in his literary society, of which he is a loyal and influential member. Furthermore, he has proven himself a capable director of business by his management of this Pine Burr.

"J. E." is liked and respected by the faculty and students, especially by certain of the girls at Treat Dormitory. Those who profess to know, say that even this sophisticated student of the classics is a victim of Cupid's crafty designs.

VAUDA EARLE SAUNDERS
SPRING HOPE, N. C.

Sappho

Sappho Society; Eastern Carolina Club, '27, '28, '29.

*"Hang sorrow, care will kill a cat,
And therefore let's be merry."*

"Don't let a day pass without some fun," is Vauda's motto. Her keen sense of humor which seems instinctively to grasp a humorous situation, is her cardinal virtue.

Hold your man, girls, because she will "vamp" him, if you don't look; then break his heart and sling him back at you.

Deep underneath her fun-loving nature, those who know her best say she has a serious side which makes her friendship all the more attractive. Her studies constitute the least of her worries, but she manages to maintain a sufficiently high average to "make time" every first Sunday afternoon from three to four bells. Who knows but that most of her study is toward her M.R.S. degree?

"Many graceful and generous qualities of wonderful womanhood are blended in her nature."

Those who know Fannie have found in her those sterling qualities which constitute true character, and her dauntless determination and sunny disposition have won the admiration, love, and respect of the faculty and students alike.

Though chemicals and irregular verbs do not possess a superfluous amount of charm for her, she is steady in her work, meeting every task with a willingness that is characteristic of her alone.

We are more than glad that she came this way to school, and we are confident that she will find a place of usefulness as she goes on her career.

GLADYS MURIEL MELVIN

Pebbles Staff, '29; Group Captain B. Y. P. U., '29; Y. W. A., '28-'29.

"Honor is purchased by the deeds we do; Honor is not won until some worthy deed is done."

From Clarkton a girl has come to us with malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right—as God gives us to see the right.

Search where you may you can hardly find a student in whose life is blended more admirable qualities than we find in the character of Gladys.

Among her many talents is her ability to write. Quietly she came into our midst and found a place on the Pebbles Staff, which she has filled creditably.

That she is an all-round, capable student is proven by her scholastic record and especially her work in the French department. She has the name among her classmates as "Mademoiselle French."

ALMA CARTER
 FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.
Sappho

Member B. Y. P. U., '28, '29; Y. W. A., '28, '29; Music Club, '28; Member Grandchildren's Club.

"To have the same likes and dislikes, therein consists the finest bonds of friendship."

A quiet worker, a conscientious student, and a sympathetic pal—that's Alma.

When Alma entered Campbell College as a freshman two years ago, we were not long in finding that she is a loyal girl and just the kind that we are glad to have around.

Alma also possesses that rare talent of making friends. But she does not stop with this; she has the distinction of keeping them. We need not prophesy success, for every characteristic of hers foretells it.

Alma's happiest moments are spent with her violin. In her leisure she turns to music for recreation and inspiration. She is a loyal member of the McDowell Music Club, to which she frequently contributes expression of her musical talent.

EDYTHE MAIE BARNHARDT

Sappho

Supervisor of Society, '27; Vice-President Y. W. A., '28; Member Western North Carolina Club, '27, '28, '29.

"Without love, frolic and a good time life is nothing."

Rarely do you find a combination of more genuine wit, humor, and scholarship than you find in Edythe, a girl from Western North Carolina. She is one whom you come to love more and more the longer you know her. With her willingness and zeal, stumbling blocks on the road cannot cause her to lose sight of her goal. She will find a way or make one.

Is she intellectual? Visit her class. Is she studious? Observe her in the library. Is she industrious? Notice her as she works. Has she ability? Witness her achievements. Has she friends? Try to count them. Endowed with these qualities, Edythe will be an asset to any college she may attend.

*"Who broke no promise, served no private end,
Who gained no title and who lost no friend."*

Paul is one of our elongated six-footers, who has earned the reputation of "hitting on six." By force of merit proven by hard work he has gained the confidence and esteem of both faculty and students. In the religious life he is active, having held several B. Y. P. U. offices; in society, he is considered one of the leading Euthrophians; in scholastic work, he holds the institution's highest honor, as president of the honor society. In addition to his love for his work, he holds a warm place for one of those "belles esprits" who reside in Miss Moon's realm; "and that's his weakness now."

A distinction that he justly deserves is that of doing anything that he undertakes well. Though by no means a proverbial "bookworm," he is by nature serious-minded and calculating. We confidentially predict a brilliant career for him.

Assistant Circulation Manager of Creek Pebbles, '29; Chorister Astro Society, '28; Member Eastern North Carolina Club, '28, '29.

*"Of a cheerful look, a pleasing eye,
And a most noble carriage."*

Looking for a possessing type? Well, here's one for you. Not a flp, not a long faced "goodie-goodie," but a combination of vivacity, wit, beauty, and charm—that's Janie. She's the girl you look at twice, then ask, "Who is that girl?" Just a little different somehow from the ordinary run of folk and possessed with a striking dignity and poise. It's Janie, who, in developing her mind to become a teacher—(she has not yet decided upon the "one" she will teach)—has not neglected to develop to an equal extent those traits of character and qualities of friendship which attract people.

Broad-minded, that's the word. She is always ready to see the other fellow's point of view. She has the sympathetic understanding of a true friend and the sportsmanship and fun of a good acquaintance.

We shall remember her as the girl one always likes better every time he sees her.

MARVIN LESTER BETHUNE
BENNLEVEL, N. C.

Basketball, '28, '29; Baseball, '28, '29; Manager Track Team, '28; Track, '29; Vice-President Harnett County Club, '28; Orchestra, '29.
"Too low, thy aim, who aims beneath the stars."

"Blundy" hails from the county of Harnett and is indeed proud of that fact. Incidentally, we might say that his homefolks are justly proud of this lad. His clear eye and honest face are a clear index to a clean manly character. Endowed with a strong, active body and a love for sports, he plays with distinction, and ever above the slightest suspicion. In basketball, track, and baseball his lightning-like speed has won him recognition wherever he has gone. His honors he wears lightly, obtaining therefrom incentives to greater crowns in the future.

But Marvin is no ordinary athlete. In his breast there burns a spark of celestial fire that points him to lofty endeavor. His eagerness for an education prompts him to drive thirteen miles from home each morning in time to meet an eight o'clock class frequently. Because of his fidelity to duty, his cleanness of life, and his sportsman-like conduct, he is a general favorite among students and teachers.

*"A smile for all, a greeting glad,
.A lovable, jolly way she had."*

If we may accept the statement, "As welcome as sunshine in every place, so is the beaming approach of a good natured face," then Christine must indeed be welcome at all places and at all times; for jollity and good nature are her most noticeable traits. She is a real girl in the complimentary sense of the word, and there are few of the typical joys of girlhood which she has missed. Her motto is, "Smile and the world smiles with you," and she certainly lives up to it. A true and loyal friend is she, and one who believes that in order to have a friend, you must be one. She is "it" in the game of fun-hunting and equally in her element at exchanging confidences, and in measuring up to the duties of college life.

In her we find a warm heart, a likeable disposition and sympathetic mind.

*"Tis not what man does that exalts him,
But what man would do."*

The casual observer who meets Vergie on the Campus or in the classroom, will probably consider her dignified and reserved, or perhaps sensitive to approach. A better acquaintance will reveal a fine sense of humor, and a deep devotion to duty. In fact, she is jolly, a good companion, adding zest and happiness to those about her.

While her interests are varied we are confident that home-building is among her chief subjects of thought. We predict that the home over which she presides will embody her high ideals and will be the happier for her presence. Her alma mater wishes for her the full realizations of her happiest dreams.

Annie is small of stature, but those who know her, admire her qualities and love her as a friend. She is a consistent and earnest worker at whatever she attempts. This earnestness, coupled with a high order of natural ability, ought to carry her far along the road of success and usefulness.

Her membership in the Honor Society is evidence of a splendid scholastic record, and her prominence in many phases of the school life—the B. Y. P. U., the literary society, and the dramatic club—is evidence of the excellent work she has done. "So well does she divide her time that she can carry a "heavy course," attend "after school" meetings and then have time to mingle with her friends. Someone has described her as "a little of the angel joined to qualities more humane, and we call the product—Annie."

Vice-President Sappho Society; Pianist Y. W. A.;

"None but herself can be her parallel."

Edith is an unusual combination of intellect, energy and wit. Although her school life has been somewhat interrupted on account of ill health, she still manages to get there with the rest of us.

In the Society hall Edith is ever doing her bit, and is easily one of the outstanding Sapphos. She has represented the society on public programs many times. Her musical talent has brought to her invitations that other Sophs longed for—the Junior-Senior reception, for instance.

Edith has made many and lasting friends on the campus, because she has showed herself friendly. The good wishes of her classmates are ever hers.

Othello doesn't make much fuss about what she does, but she does it just the same; and in everything she does she shows unselfish ideas of service. Othello is one of our truest class members. During her two years at Campbell she has won the love and respect of student and teacher alike.

Those who know Othello best find many true qualities which are not seen by an outsider; and for each of these, they love her.

Martha doesn't live in the dormitory, but this does not mean that she is not popular with all her fellow students. She has the true Campbell spirit, and her class is proud to claim her as one of its most loyal and faithful members. Those who know her know that she possesses an unlimited amount of wit, and a well developed sense of humor. We love her for these and other qualities, and we do not need to prophesy success—her every characteristic foretells it.

Liberal-minded and consistent."*

Quiet, but not too quiet; cheerful, but not a giggler; studious, but not a bookworm; smart, but not too smart; sympathetic, sincere, loyal—a friend worth having is Gladys. And abundance of originality is hers, also the faculty of knowing how and when to do things. Her ideals are of the highest type; she is noted for her faithfulness to duty and the things that are right. She is gracious in manner and spirit, and is always the same sweet girl.

Gladys is above par in the more essential characteristics—good scholarship, serious purpose, and real friendliness. She is that happy mixture of good humor and earnestness that makes its possessor destined to succeed. And so she loves and is loved by the college.

Margaret comes to us from the sandy loams of the coast bringing repose, modesty, and patience. Fascinating in features and in voice, she still possesses a little air of indifference. With her high sense of humor, her witty remarks, and her good judgment she has won a place among her fellow students that none but her can fill.

She goes about her work with a light-hearted and carefree attitude, and she leaves us to guess what work she likes best. If you should see her work in the art room; or watch her as she takes the part of an old man or a small child in the dramatic club, or hear her as she takes charge of her B. Y. P. Tho popular with the girls because of his suavity, he is closely attentive to his scholastic duty, and is leaving the institution with two years of honorable achievement. During his stay he has contributed freely to the college paper, serving on its staff for much of the time. But with all his interest, he has found time to win honorable mention for his thorough class work. His hobby is Latin.

Mention should be made of his fidelity to the religious organizations of student life. He has served acceptably as B. Y. P. U. President, among his many positions of trust. So easily does he go about his work that what others do with difficulty, seems easy to him.

*"I swear she is true-hearted, and a soul

Class of '29, what would you have done without Rosa? Jumping from the sixth grade to college graduation in six years, and winning distinction by selection to the honor society, tells only a small part of the achievement of "our old reliable." Whether it is leading a religious organization, assisting in the Church Choir or College Operas, acting as supply teacher, or washing dishes to pay expenses, Rosa is ever ready to answer the emergency call.

Her busy life has not kept her from winning a warm place in the hearts of her fellow students. With "service" as her motto she has been a friend to the homesick, a counselor to the wayward, and a participant in all student projects. She is possessed of fine sense of humor, which often finds expression in whole-souled laughter that's contagious. In truth we shall miss her.

Class History

SINCE the days of the prophets men have sought in vain to unroll the destinies of mankind. But even to us of average intelligence the deeds of yesterday are a common possession. Particularly well known to Campbell College friends are the bright achievements of this graduating class during its residence here. In fact, so illustrious are its acts that a rehearsal can be justified only for the instruction of posterity and for the glory of alma mater, which this chronicle will greatly enhance.

The class of '29 arrived at Buie's Creek during the fall of 1927, bearing in ecstasy the laurels and bouquets of high school graduation still fresh in our memory. "Surely such a class," we fondly dreamed, "so wise in thought and fair in features, never before has entered the halls of learning." And yet, ere long we realized that the bed of roses, which our imagination had woven out of the glamour of college life, had disappeared before the cold light of reality. We had to go to work!

Well do we remember the first class meeting held in the boys' study hall, where, as we believed, we chose from our class of ninety-three, those best prepared to lead us into the green fields of truth. Mac Satterwhite was chosen president; Audrey O'Brian, vice-president; Maybelle Wheelless, secretary; and Esther Moon, treasurer.

As we review the record of this first year, we find it resplendent with brilliant achievements. In athletics our class took the lead, presenting in all three of the major sports a majority of the successful candidates. In scholarship, our members so impressed the faculty that they relied upon us heavily when in perplexity over the knotty tangles of new thought. In the religious life and in other extra-curricula activities, the freshmen of 1928 were right there with co-operation, initiative, and leadership.

When the sixth of September, 1928, rolled around, an overwhelming majority of the class of 1929 were found on registration day ready to go the second mile of Collegiate training. Taking the places of those who fell during the barrage from the faculty examinations in the spring, came a number of aspiring candidates from other institutions, attracted doubtless by the widening fame of our class.

No less spectacular have been the accomplishments of the college during the period of our ascendancy to seniority. Our football team has scalped our strong rivals, the Wake Forest Freshmen for the first time, subdued Mars Hill College, and vanquished Atlantic Christian College for the second successive year. This year, too, marks our entrance into the realm of inter-collegiate debating, which we predict will dignify public speaking in student life and eventually restore the literary societies to first place in our affections.

In student life our class has presented a brilliant array of actors. Constance Midkiff was elected editor-in-chief of the 1929 Pine Burr. Ryburn Stancil well guided the editorial policy of Creek Pebbles, official publicity organ of Campbell College. Furthermore, six of the B. S. C. Council were selected from the Sophomore class, as follows: Constance Midkiff, Reba Mills, Esther Moon, Susie Danner, William Lynch, and Howard Gardner.

And now as we come to the end of our stay at this beloved place, we bid farewell to our alma mater with the hope that she will continue to do for others what she has done for us.

[FORTY-FIVE]

Class Prophecy

IT was midnight—eight hours before the examination on Shakespearean tragedies in English III. Julius Caesar, in all his pomp and glory, lay dying at my feet. Romeo, filled with disappointment, stood by his dead Juliet in the shady cemetery. Hamlet, was exchanging death for dissatisfaction. I repeated again the dates, "1564-1616." Finally, after many a yawn, I gave up the ghost—I suppose. I must have dreamed.

"Ladies and Gentlemen, this is station FATE, Buie's Creek, N. C., broadcasting the vitaphone picture, "The Review of '29." We trust that your dial is clear, and that you will both hear and see the play with pleasure. It is now eight o'clock, Friday, December 13, 1949. Thank you."

Timothy Francis Savage then appeared upon a painted stage as master of ceremonies. After announcing that the play was a portrayal of the accomplishments of the members of the class of '29 at Campbell College, he quoted—as if especially for me—from my old friend Shakespeare: "All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players."

In a procession, the playmakers, my classmates, presented themselves.

Softly and sweetly the tones of music began to swell in my ears as harmonious chords brought forth "Among My Souvenirs." Louise Leslie and Edith Pearson at the piano were giving the prelude, as they were to accompany the playmakers.

The curtain slowly rose, and there way up in the sky hung Howard Gardner, an astronomer, ever studying the powerful phrase, "O Esther, ever thou art the Moon."

Through the mist came Edythe Barnhardt, posing as a teacher of "Classroom Behavior."

Paul Cale and Earl Jordan appeared side by side in their own science laboratory. Paul was trying to prove to Earl that love made the world go "round." It used to be "square."

Lawyer Annie Warren was well situated in the bar, since she found constant work in pleading for a certain "Pat."

Graham Wilbur came in on a bicycle, announcing bankruptcy. He had tried to make a fortune selling German, Latin, and Trig. books to Campbell's collegians.

The scene changed and I saw in the jungles of Africa Fred Blount, sweeping coconuts off the cocoanuts. I have heard recently that he went to the uninhabited section of that country to take practice lessons in voice.

Little Rosa Edwards appeared just a few miles beyond the "Red section," where it was revealed that she was on a walking tour of the world for reduction of—prices, maybe. Her next stop was China.

My old Latin friend, J. E. Adams, was sitting around with a "Uke" in his hands, accompanying the chords with his own philosophical notes.

Gladys Harris, counting her fingers—oh, yes, tracing relationship with David. Back of it all, though, she was city librarian in the rural district of Cullen, Virginia.

Quickly a contrast flashed as I peeped into the cozy home of Vergie Waller, who was at that hour entertaining the Barbee girls, Janie and Christine—they having attained fame in the movie world. They were at the time seeking information for their next picture, "She Got Her Man."

Was that Bertha Woodruff? If it was, she was a home "ee" teacher supervising in a kitchen. Rather sadly, though, it was a college kitchen.

A peep behind the bars then explained why some of our classmates could not participate in the review.

Blinky-blank, I missed that pose. Maybe it was Susie Banner, using the first step of the Charleston as a method of enlightenment to little heathens. Perhaps it was Alma Carter, spilling ink on somebody's eyebrows. She always did want to be a beauty specialist. I don't know, I reckon the curtain was pulled for change of scenes.

It was worth it. The second act opened in a Greek Cafeteria. In walked Dr. Timothy Savage, Superintendent of Schools in Teachey. Going over to his usual table, he surprisingly greeted Dr. Constance Midkiff, physician of financial "ills" and patches. The professionals enjoyed that meal—but now, they tell me, they are "souping" together.

George Cullipher was suspended by means of vines entwined about the trees in Pelmel, ever preaching the way of deliverance to the forsaken inhabitants of that country.

The head of the democratic donkey soon became apparent. He was enjoying usual happiness, simply being "pushed" by farmer "Doug" Byrd.

"Get set," and Marvin Bethune said "Go." A track coach gets his pay also.

With clasped hands and curved lips Margaret Duncan was informing her students on the latest pronunciation of ä and â. Expression.

Carl Hilliard simply asked, "Would there be anything else today? Special reduction on gas at Hilliard Filling Station."

Grady Souther with his brush was attracting daily throngs to his studio to witness his latest hit in painting, "Campbell's Creek."

Edison Lennon posed by the side of his teletypesetter in the Pebbles office at Buie's Creek.

"Now hush, that letter is a." I recognized these words from the school room of Vanda Saunders.

Ryburn Stencil presented to his fellow classmates the latest edition of his monthly journal, "Married Life." Did Martha Stallings influence the naming of her husband's magazine? I believe Martha was doing light house keeping.

Gladys Warren was relieving the pains of "fast" drivers and such. Not yet had she soothed the broken heart of a love-sick patient.

Othello Patterson with some "Merchant of Venice" had established a jewelry store. The store began when he gave her the first diamond, and then another.

I next looked into the beautiful Memorial Hall at Campbell. There, in a round table discussion on disciplinary affairs, sat Esther Moon, Audrey O'Brian and Lynda O'Quinn. These girls in the man-less profession were now determining the fate of our little "Jrs."

My classmates joined in a finale chorus, "We're sitting at the foot of the rainbow." Harken, classmates, who knows? A lie may be the truth.

Last Will and Testament

KNOWING that by nature our departure from the world of Junior College education is close at hand, we the class of 1929 at Campbell College, being of sound minds and bodies, after two hard years of continuous study, hereby make our last Will and Testament.

In setting forth this disposition of all our possessions, we further proclaim it to be our purpose to acknowledge our debt to our beloved teachers, to distribute our belongings among those whom they will help most, and to escape the enormous income tax, which otherwise would accrue.

SECTION I

Article 1—To our dear old Alma Mater we wish to express our deepest and sincerest love; we wish to let it be known that as we pass out into other walks of life, this class will be true to the high ideals for which this institution stands.

SECTION II

Article 1—To Dr. J. A. Campbell, our dearly beloved president, we wish to express our deepest appreciation for the many things he has done for us during our stay here.

Article 2—To Professor L. H. Campbell we wish also to express our appreciation for the many kindnesses he has shown us as our sponsor, advisor and friend.

SECTION III

Article 1—To the class of 1930 we will and bequeath the joys, responsibilities, and dignity of our graduating class.

Article 2—Paul Cale wills and bequeaths his place as Biology laboratory instructor to Freshman Sam Hood.

Article 3—Tim Savage wills to Freshman Sam Strickland his ability to learn history.

Article 4—Esther Moon wills and bequeaths to Dolly Aycock her power to vamp boys.

Article 5—Earl Jordan wills to Freshman James Hockaday his very keen sense of humor.

Article 6—Ryburn Stencil wills to Freshman Joe Martin his place as Campus sheik.

Pine Burr

Article 7—Bob Reaves wills and bequeaths that portion of his hair lying between the desert area above his eyebrows to the barren wastes of the North Pole at the top of his head, to Professor Edwards.

Article 8—J. E. Adams wills and bequeaths to Professor Leslie his spectacles, so that he may detect all the mistakes in the English papers.

Article 9—Everette Miller wills his place on the football team to "Big Hank."

Article 10—Reba Mills wills to Ruth Savage her love for red hair.

Article 11—Audrey O'Brian wills and bequeaths to Annie Kerr her place as campus flirt.

SECTION IV

Article 1—To our beloved faculty we bequeath all of the research investigations, previously reported on our examinations, as our appreciation for what they have done for us.

SECTION V

Article 1—To our parents we wish to show our deepest appreciation for the sacrifices they have endured to make it possible for us to be in school.

SECTION VI

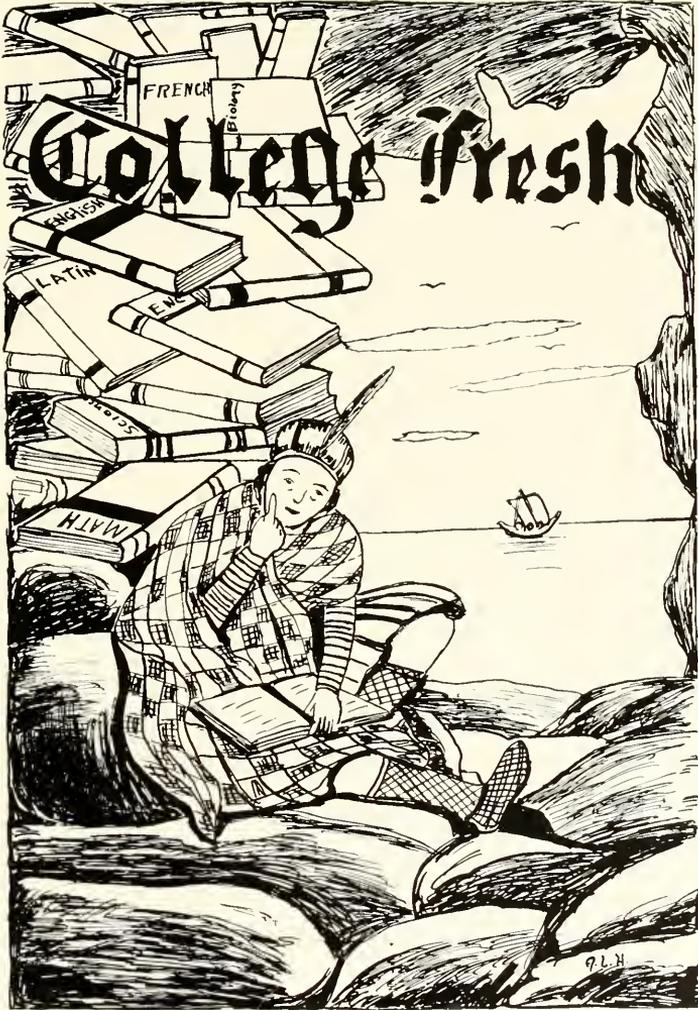

The class as a whole is made executor of this last Will and Testament and is hereby authorized to carry it out to the last letter.

Freshman Class Poem

*When Ponce de Leon boldly crossed the sea
In search of youth, that none should ever know
Old age, but always young and handsome be,
His face was tinted with the sunset's glow,
He sailed for many a weary day and night,
Endured the roughness of the stormy sea,
To seek that fount whose magic waters might
Restore to him his youth eternally,
Now just as Ponce de Leon hoped to gain
The fount of youth immortal in his day,
So come we students, hoping to attain
A drink from wisdom's fountain, if we may,
We seek a fountain nobler far than he,
Whose potency is best of all that be.*

Freshman Class History

WHILE only posterity can truly evaluate the events of the present time, certain decisions in human life are ever fraught with destiny. Such an event was the entrance of the Freshman Class of 1928-29 at Campbell College on last September 4. The influence of that step, both on the College and the members of this class, can in no certain way be measured.

Shortly after our arrival we met for organization. The roll of members revealed the fact that this is the largest Freshman Class in the history of the institution—one hundred eleven in number, gathered from several states. After spirited balloting the following officers were selected to guide the work of the class for the year: Lloyd Gilbert, President; Milton Lee, Vice-President; Dollie Aycock, Secretary-Treasurer.

Much of the work of this class, like that of every class, has had little of the spectacular in it. The gap between high school and college is wide, and much quiet study has been required to establish ourselves in our new position. Naturally, too, as Freshmen we have had to win our place in the life of the institution by proving our merit, and this has required some time. With all these handicaps, we have achieved a record that we believe would do credit to any similar organization. We have representation in the new Honor Society; high officers in the Literary Societies, religious organizations, and other clubs of a literary nature. We are especially proud of the record of Lyman Seymour as chairman of the program committee of the McDowell Music Club. In athletics our class has presented such popular heroes as Monroe Williamson, "Hank" Harrington, Bob Harrington, and Joe Martin.

One of our happy memories of the year is Freshman-Sophomore picnic, which we staged in honor of the college graduating class. We entered into it with all the enthusiasm of our membership, and we believe that our guests will admit that it was a success.

But the record of the class belongs more to prophecy than to history. Our faces are toward the future; and inspired by our success in the days of beginning, we face the future, full of confidence and hope. Next year we shall plan greater things for ourselves and for our Alma Mater.

If you are looking for a girl of talents, here is one. If you are looking for a girl with brains, find this one. If you want a girl that fits in any place, you'll find her in Mary.

JOHN HOCUTT

Eu.
Ashton, N. C.

Secretary Society, '27; Track, '28-'29; Vice-President Class, '27; Treasurer, '28-'29; Supervisor Society, '28-'29.

His ability to learn easily has saved him much hard study. While his grades are creditable, he finds time to mix with his fellows, exchange wit, and participate in several extra-class activities.

ANNIE LAURIE HARRELSON

Astro
WINNABOW, N. C.

President Society, '28-'29; President Art Club, '27-'28; B. Y. P. U.; Secretary Class, '28; Secretary Latin Club, '28; Supervisor Society, '27; Pine Burr Staff, '29; Honor Society; Vice-President Eastern Carolina Club, '29; Y. W. A.

Though one of the most honored and best loved members of our class, she wears her distinctions lightly. She is loyal to every duty, and careful in the execution of the smallest details.

MABEL STEWART
BUE'S CREEK, N. C.

Vice-President Class, '29; Grandchildren's Club.
Bue's Creek born and bred, Mabel comes to the end of her high school career with a well-rounded preparation for college days. Her popularity extends even beyond her girl associates—doesn't it, boys?

CARL WELLS
Eu.

HALLSBORO, N. C.
Baseball, '28-'29; Assistant Football Manager.
With exams near at hand, Carl has still to find the secret of how to compress into one twenty-four hours time enough to prepare five lessons and meet all the mails from Raleigh. But it must be done.

OLLA FAY JOHNSON
BUE'S CREEK, N. C.

Grandchildren's Club; Harnett County Club; Latin Club, '27; Music Club, '28.
Quiet, unassuming, capable—three words that unlock the heart of this lovable girl. Though the pet of her home, she has not been spoiled. Her love for the beautiful in art and music has had a refining influence upon her nature.

MARSH MYERS
Eu.

JENNINGS, N. C.
Captain Football, '27-'28; B. Y. P. U.; Baseball '28.
All hail the noble captain of our football team. Sincere, honest, a good fellow and a true friend—that's Myers.

RHODA GREGORY
BUE'S CREEK, N. C.

We expect great things of Rhoda, because she has applied herself diligently to her work here. She believes that "silence is golden," and she also has a way of attending strictly to her own business. Nevertheless her quiet manner has won for her a host of friends.

RUTH LIPSCOMB

Sappho

DURHAM, N. C.

Volunteer Band, '28-'29; B. Y. P. U.; Y. W. A.;
Chaplain Society, '27-'28; Music Club, '28; Durham
County Club, '27-'28.

How could Buie's Creek exist without Ruth? Some say we won't have to. Starting in the sixth grade, she has at the end of five busy years come to graduation. In the various activities open to girls she has taken a prominent place.

OLIVE GEDDIE

Phi

STEADMAN, N. C.

Society Pianist; B. Y. P. U.; President Music Club, '29; Latin Club; Cumberland County Club.

Hats off to Olive. He has been one of the mainstays of the class musical, witty, and a lover of a good time. His pleasing personality has won him many friends.

ALLIE BLUE

Astro

CARTHAGE, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Y. W. A.

Allie inherited from her brother who was here last year, a warm place in our affections. But she has strengthened the bond on her own account. Along with her "good looks" she has brains and a big heart.

HERBERT HOOD

Eu.

SANDERSVILLE, GA.

Bachelor's Club.

A genuine "Georgia cracker," possessing a determination to get an education that does not balk even at a job cooking. He does his task without murmuring, whether solving intellectual problems or working for expense money.

SARA BESS SCOTT

Astro

RALEIGH, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Y. W. A.; Chorister Society, '28;
Wake County Club, '26-'27; Basketball, '27-'28.

Of all the things Sara Bess does do, worry is not one. If a merry heart does good like a medicine, send for her. Her musical talent has often had happy expression on our programs.

LILLIAN HAWLEY

Sappho

COLUMBIA, S. C.

"Why think twice before you speak, you'll say it any how." Her impulsiveness only adds to her lovely disposition. Thank you, South Carolina, for such a gift.

GROVER HAWLEY

En.

COLUMBIA, S. C.

E. Y. P. U.; Bachelor's Club; Track Team. '29.

Grover hails from South Carolina, with the avowed purpose of working out an education. His resolution is so firm that obstacles fail to terrify. He deserves success.

AVIS MARKS

BUIE'S CREEK, N. C.

Fortune has been kind indeed to this Harnett County girl, having bestowed upon her both beauty and brains. Quietly and yet cheerfully, she does her work well. Those who know her life feel that she richly deserves the high esteem of her classmates.

HARVEY MILLER

Phi

CARTHAGE, N. C.

Assistant Football Manager.

From the city of Carthage comes this aspirant for graduation honors. In his one year with us he has demonstrated the attractiveness of fun tempered by a firm conviction of duty.

RUTH BURNS

Sappho

DUNN, N. C.

Harnett County Club:

Steadiness characterizes this deserving girl. By her excellent examples she has one of the highest respect and esteem of her fellow students and teachers. Her record is spotless.

BERLES JOHNSON

En.

BUIE'S CREEK, N. C.

Grandchildren's Club, '29.

Rarely does he get in a hurry, but he is a good student just the same. Earnest good-natured, and conscientious, he is a popular member of our class.

LEWIS OVERTON

En.

POWELLSVILLE, N. C.

His words convey little of his achievement. Always there and always willing—that's Overton. We hope him a bright future.

GORDON STALLINGS

GOLDSBORO, N. S.

Gordon is the "Tarzan" of our class, fits well everywhere. His room is the rendezvous for all fun-loving fellows. He graduated from our class after one year in residence, but indelibly impressed himself on our memories.

JOHN BRYD

COATS, N. C.

John isn't a roommate but still he's a handy ladies man. "All work and no play" says the adage, "makes Jack a dull boy;" consequently John prefers play.

EUGENIA CAIN

BUIE'S CREEK, N. C.

Time never stands still, neither does Eugenia. Always going and always getting there—which proves haste does not make waste.

Senior Class Prophecy

DAY after day our giant dirigible zoomed through space. We were passing through the solar system, and I was leaning over the rail to examine a small planet. Suddenly, the ship gave a lurch and I fell headlong over the rail. I heard the cry—"Man Overboard" ring from the plane. Though for a moment terror-stricken, I was set at ease by the thought of the ship's life boat, which would be dispatched to rescue me. But it would take several days to locate me in that immensity of space! At that moment I was rushing past the moon. Being hungry I cut off a large piece of cheese of which that planet is composed. I devoured this strange substance eagerly, which immediately gave me a sensation of lightness and power. My eyesight was multiplied ten million times. I saw the earth, a mere dot in the solar system, yet sufficient unto itself. I saw the glittering whiteways of the great cities and finally—Campbell University with all its grandeur and glory. There I had spent my happy days during my school life. This sight reminded me of my old schoolmates. With my all-seeing eyes I began to look the universe for them. I gazed through jails, insane asylums, slums and mansions of wealth. I saw traces of them everywhere, even in the milky Way. These are the facts which I discovered in my search:

In the up-side-down empire of China I saw several of my old comrades, among them was Olive Goddie. He had given up music and was coaching football at the University of Hong-Kong. Gordon Stallings was rooming with Olive, and in the meantime was working on an invention which would greatly reduce the size of feet. Across the street Virginia Jones was teaching little boys not to throw stones, because she lived in a glass house of her very own.

Most of the revered Seniors of '29 had remained in the U. S. Of course, all of them had obtained fame and riches. Carl Wells, the great algebra professor, had discovered the meaning of the unknown quantity of X. Myrtle Hughes, President of the United States, was seaching through the freak sideshows of the world for a man large enough to be her husband. On the very day that Myrtle found a suitable husband, Leland Cox organized a world's society for the prevention of laughter and wise-cracks.

Many classmates had clung to the home town of their alma mater. Mabel Stewart was one of them. She decided that Buie's Creek was too small for one of her great talents, so she constructed a city there which rivaled and finally surpassed New York in size. Herbert Hood, after years of experience carried on at the Bachelors' Club, had discovered a new variety of beans. Harvey Miller found out that two could live cheaper than one, so he married Professor Leslie's daughter, Katherine, and then built a house on the banks of the "Creek," living happily ever after. Across the Creek was the research laboratory of Annie Laurie Harrelson. She was investigating the appeal which red hair exerts over the feminine mind. Lewis Overton had assumed control of Campbell University. He had made his million, as had his predecessors (?).

Over in Europe was Lillian Hawley. She was teaching English grammar in Jungo-Slavia. Franklin Dupree, alias "The Bloody Tarheel" champion heavy weight boxer of the earth and moon, was in England looking for someone who would fight him.

In a great office in New York was Berles Johnson, President of the United Farms Corporation, which owned and operated every farm in the United States. He often went to see the Ziegfeld Follics, which were directed by Allie Blue. Allie, in turn, often went to hear Clyde Glosson, the second Billy Sunday. Sara Bess Scott was thrilling Clyde's audiences with her beautiful voice. Olla Fay Johnson was composing new jazz songs in Tin Pan Alley.

Carl Ousley, as a result of an unsuccessful effort to teach the theory of evolution to the monkeys of South America, had just met an untimely end at the hands of a giant orang-outang. While attending Carl's funeral services Ruth Lipsecomb and Elsie Tyner met and later married the Prince of Wales and the King of Japan, respectively.

Many other wonderful sights of former schoolmates met my gaze, which would require volumes to record. Concerning these I shall report later.

Senior Class Poem

THE VOICE OF THE FUTURE

*Looking out, before us
We see new vistas of life;
Love, sorrow, happiness, strife,
Singing an everlasting chorus:
"Come, come," they seem to say;
"Hurry, hurry, life is approaching.
You had your pleasures yesterday
You've not had the best of coaching."*

*Now enter Life.
"Work, my boy, struggle, my girl;
It's the only way to get things
In this life's giddy whirl.
Come, my children, come and strive;
The weak die; the strong survive."
Insistently the voice in our ears sings.*

*We stand before the brink
Of a new life, waiting
For the signal to go, hating
The thought of leaving it all, but drink—
One and all, one last sweet drought;
Think of the past—the true friends*

*We've had. But now we're caught
In the mesh of life—and it sends
Thoughts of love, hate, and sorrow.
Now! Now! We can't wait 'til tomorrow!
We've had our petty foibles and things,
But now we hear the voice of Life—*

*"Come, come" it says, "the past
Is only a bucket of ashes. Forget
And live for the future. At last
You shall gain your lasting,
Laughter or tears, it's all the same;
The passing of years doesn't change the game.
The end of it all is in eternity.
Come, my children, Life is an old mystery."
Insistently the voice in our ears sings.*

Last Will and Testament

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA,
 COUNTY OF HARNETT,
 CITY OF BUIE'S CREEK.

We, the High School Seniors, being about to expire, and a large number of us being occasionally sane and in our right minds, do, in this, one of our moments of sanity, will and bequeath the following items:

ITEM I—To the faculty we leave a sigh of relief, to be given by them at our departure.

ITEM II—To the Juniors we bequeath our teachers and our subjects, with the hope that they may be of more benefit to them than they have been to us.

ITEM III—To the school we leave our best wishes for its continued success.

The following individual items are cheerfully bequeathed:

ITEM I—To Miss Powell we will a stable to shelter her dearly beloved Latin "ponies."

ITEM II—(a) To Miss Moon we bequeath a book of etiquette, for reference in compiling student talks. (b) To Miss Moon we bequeath again a new bell, the glasses being sorely in need of a rest.

ITEM III—To Professor Edwards we will one good science student to carry out his theories and brighten his days.

ITEM IV—To Professors Marshbanks and Brandon we will new handkerchiefs to be used as black-board compasses.

ITEM V—We will to the postoffice a phonograph and two records named respectively "The mail has come" and "The mail has not come" for the benefit of its inquisitive patrons.

ITEM VI—We will to "Doc" Hardwick some new post-card pictures of Buie's Creek.

ITEM VII—David Harris wills his position as "Campus Fool" to anyone in search of work who may possess a goodly store of wanderings.

ITEM VIII—Theodore Lee leaves his scholastic record to the Juniors to be used as a model on which to pattern their records.

ITEM IX—Harvey Miller wills his ebony locks to Rody Clemmons, cursed by fate with flaxen curls.

ITEM X—Mary Seymour bequeaths her rights to kiss "Lib" Baucom to some bold, bad man of the future.

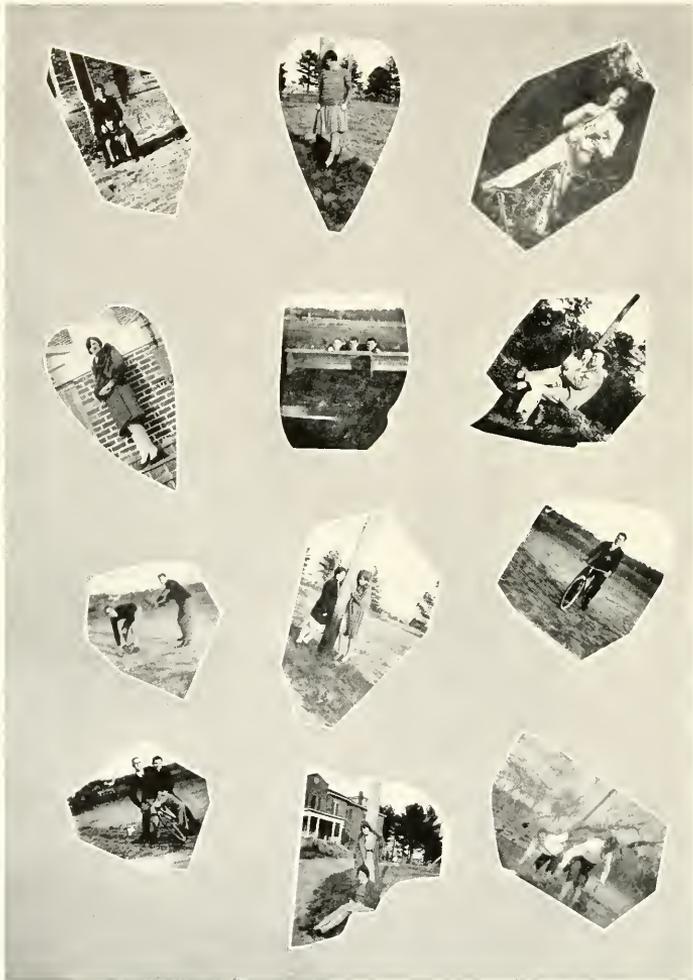

ITEM XI—Alma Long, Allie Blue and Annie Laurie Harrelson leave their sweetest smiles with all good wishes to the boys of the Junior class.

In witness whereof, we, attesting this to be the last Will and Testament of the departing Senior Class, do offer our hand and seal, this, the seventh day of January in the year of our Lord, nineteen hundred and twenty nine.

Junior Class Poem

*We are a happy, jolly lot,
Campbell's Juniors, don't you know?
We always like to do things well;
Sometimes to make a show.*

*Our goal is far beyond the sun;
Troubles sore do lie between.
Our aim is work and ne'er give up
Till the promise land be seen.*

*To all of our dear teachers true
Our many thanks we give
For the plenteous store of knowledge
With which our heads we fill.*

*In Seniorville we hope to land
Upon our next adventure;
But there the things that we will learn
Are quite too hard to picture.*

SOPHOMORE CLASS

Class Poem

*Two years in "high" our race we've run;
So swiftly have those years been spent;
The tangled threads of life undone
Oft foil our steps in aimless bent.*

*As Freshmen first we made debut
Unskilled in learned paths to walk;
Many falls had we with our boohoo hoo
Before as Sophs we learned to stalk.*

*As Sophomores we strut our stuff
Before the tim'rous Freshmen kids;
It's fun to counterfeit a bluff
And watch their hair push off their lids.*

*As Juniors next we'll put away
Our childish tricks for sage's gold;
For soon will dawn that gladsome day
When we shall reign as Seniors bold.*

MARTHA SUEWINA BULLOCK

FUQUAY SPRINGS, N. C.

Graduate Rock Ridge High School.

"Sincere and true in all things."

Bright brown eyes! She has them and such a charming personality! "Sue" has made good records in the business department, and we hope she will continue to make them after she leaves school.

O. A. MITCHELL, Eu.

POWELLSVILLE, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Graduate Mars Hill High School.

"Freshman" is a very energetic worker. Everyone likes him and evidently he likes everyone. He will certainly be a success if we may judge him from his early start.

DOROTHY M. GRINDSTAFF

Sappho

BAKERSVILLE, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Group Captain; Y. W. A.; Graduate Goldsboro High School.

"The way to have friends is to be one."

"Dot" is a quiet, cheerful worker, and has a good word for everyone, even in the worst of circumstances. Good luck, "Dot."

PRITCHARD BOWEN, Eu.

MERRY HILL, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Treasurer B. Y. P. U.; Track Squad, '29; Graduate Merry Hill High School.

"A regular ladies' man."

"Red" is a sincere, steady student. His cheerful words and smiles have won for him a place in everyone's heart.

EDNA EARL BROWN, Sappho

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.

Y. W. A.; B. Y. P. U.; Cumberland County Club; Graduate Seventy-first High School.

"Everybody's friend."

It is seldom we find a sweeter girl than Edna. To be a friend of hers is a honor. Life is what we make it: Edna makes it happy and successful.

LACY BRAGG HANNON, Eu.
CARTHAGE, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Graduate Sandhill Farm Life; Commencement Debater, '29.

"A proud possessor of many fine traits."

Wise? Yes. Studious? Sure. Prudish? No. In spite of his love for studying and making good grades, Lacy is a "sure-nuff" boy, and a friend worth having.

RUTH AILEEN MEDLIN, Sappho
BENSON, N. C.

B. Y. P. U. and Y. W. A.; B. Y. P. U. Group Captain; Graduate Benson High School.

"I'm so thrilled—I'm going home."

Rufus is a very interesting girl who is ever ready to help without complaining. She loves fun too, as her many friends will tell you.

JOHN HAMILTON MINTZ, Eu.
CHARLOTTE, N. C.

Commercial Class Representative on Annual Staff; Track Squad, '29; Position Critic Society, '29; Graduate Southport High school; Mgr. Track team, '29; Member Eastern N. C. Club; Commencement Orator, '29; President of Class Spring term.

"A just ruler for the mighty ones."

He is a sincere friend to all who know him and a personification of congeniality. With this personality he has made a host of friends throughout the school.

MARTHA P. McDUFFIE, Astro
BISHOPVILLE, S. C.

Grandchildren's Club, Y. W. A.; B. Y. P. U.; Out-of-State Club; Secretary Commercial Class; Group Leader B. Y. P. U.; Supervisor of Society; Anniversary Reciter; Graduate Fairview High School.

"Always ready to do what there is to be done."

The cheery, sunny disposition, and keen sense of humor of this prominent member of our class have made it easy to win the love of all her classmates.

ROBERT W. LANIER, Eu.
WALLACE, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; President Sunday School Class; Secretary Society, '29; President Eastern North Carolina Club; Graduate Wallace High School; Orchestra.

"Wherever I go, my smile goes with me."

Everyone knows that "Bob" is a fine boy. He has the real school spirit all through. The optimism expressed by this motto, "I may be down, but I am never out," has much to do with his popularity.

MARY KATHERINE BUNDY, Astro
BENNETTSVILLE, S. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Y. W. A.; Secretary Society, '29;
 Pres. Out-of-State Club; Cheer Leader; Elected
 Most Popular Student.

"I ask you confidentially—ain't she cute!"

We know her by her merry laughter and original remarks. She is fond of bright ties; her chief food supply comes from the Hershey Company. She is a good sport and is always on the job when it comes to leading cheers. Good luck, Bundy!

ALBERT GRIFFIN, Eu.
WOODLAND, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Vice-Pres. Commercial Class; Basketball squad, '29; Graduate Woodland High School.

"I have three questions to ask and I want the facts."

Although he is generally believed to be bashful among the ladies, we know him differently. He cannot, however, claim bashfulness in books, for he possesses a mind that will carry him to success.

WILLIE GLOSSON, Sappho
GREENSBORO, N. C.

ROBERT L. MITCHELL (Bob) Eu.
POWELLVILLE, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Supervisor of Society; President Commercial Class; Graduate Mars Hill High School.

"She's in the Junior Class."

A diligent worker in his studies and outside activities, "Bob" is well thought of by all who know him. He is especially interested in the Junior Class—or rather one of its members.

BURNETTE ASHLEY, Eu.
WAXHAW, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Assistant Supervisor Society, '29; Graduate Waxhaw High School.

"Accommodation means everything."

He has by his accommodating, cheerful disposition, and his manly determination, won the love and respect of all his fellow students.

HAROLD F. READLING, Phi
CORNELIUS, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Graduate Cornelius High School.
"Prof. Wallace's right hand man."

When looking for a boy who is ready to help, call at Harold's door. He's a good fellow, ready for any good joke or serious story. He is no dumb-bell either, for he makes good in everything he attempts to do.

AUTRYVILLE, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; and Group Leader B. Y. P. U.
"Silence sometimes means thought."

If you ever have Luola for a friend, you will know what true friendship is. She is a willing worker and very capable. Graduate Clement High School.

FINTON CORDLE, Phi
SEABOARD, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Graduate Seaboard High School.
"Combines personal dignity with common sense."

Through his quiet nature there always beams a look of intelligence. And if he can only be made to talk, his thoughts are found to be sound and sincere.

EMMA NEWTON, Astro
YOUNGSDALE, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Y. W. A.; Chaplain Society, '29.
"Quiet, companionable, and funny."

Emma is one of those quiet, even tempered, unruffled persons occasionally met in this life. In addition she is a good sport, and never meddles with the affairs of others. She works with a will.

MARVIN TYNDALL, Eu.
STANTONSBURG, N. C.

B. Y. P. U.; Graduate Snow Hill High School.
"And still the wonder grows that one small head could carry all he knew."

When you see a little, short boy with a serious demeanor enter the class room, that's Marvin. He is small in stature but large in ability.

STAURT, Tackle

"Love" was a stone in the line. You just couldn't pass him.

WELCH, Halfback

Bob started late; but when he did get going, he proved that he was a real football player.

SAVAGE, Guard

This big man could always be depended upon to play a steady, reliable game.

VESTAL, Quarterback

"Wigs'" cool headed and excellent passing and kicking contributed much towards our victories this year.

CHANEY, Tackle

"Lon" played a clean, hard game. We can't say better than that for anyone.

GARDNER, Guard

"Lonzy" played as a regular this year for the first time. He proved to be unusually good as a defensive guard.

BYRD, Halfback

"Rain" shows promise of developing into a real "triple-threat man." He can run, kick, or pass equally well.

REAVES, Halfback

This man had a combination of size and speed, hard to beat.

HARRINGTON, Tackle

"Big Hank" had plenty of grit and determination to make up for his lack of avoidupois. He played at this difficult position for the first time.

SEXTON, Center

Although Sexton didn't get to play regularly, he is a good man. He is young and will develop into a regular.

Pine Bluff

WILLIAMS, Guard

Cortez is another new football player. He should be a valuable man next year.

WILLIAMSON, End

"Roc's" ability to catch passes helped us to win several games.

HARRINGTON, Center

"Little Hank" looked good even against Oak Ridge's heavy linesman. He starred in the line.

[ONE HUNDRED THIRTY-ONE]

1929

MYERS, End

Captain "Red" was the ideal man to pilot our team through a hard season. He was especially good on defense.

LOWE, Fullback

With Fred backing up the line, few gains were made in his territory.

GURGANUS, Fullback

When "Gooley" hit the line, something had to give way in front of him.

SNEAD, Halfback

Alex made more points than any other man on the team. He featured on line buck plays.

Football Review

VERY early Coach Hayes, assisted by Coach Brandon, had two full teams on the field for training to prepare for the schedule of the season. Only four letter men were back this year—Myers, Savage, Lowe, and Stewart—but using these as frame work, the coaches built around them a winning team.

The season opened with Guilford College, who carried away a 19 to 0 victory. This defeat did not cause the men to lose heart, but only inspired them to put forth renewed effort. The next game, which was with Wingate, was a hard fought one, finally ending in a 6 to 6 tie.

On the 13th of September was Campbell's first real victory, which was won over 16th Field Artillery of Fort Bragg by a score of 12 to 6. This was followed the next week by a 14 to 0 victory over Wake Forest Freshmen. Weaver soon played at Asheville, and Campbell came away with 6 to 13 defeat. She soon regained this loss by defeating the 17th Field Artillery of Fort Bragg 14 to 6.

Against Oak Ridge, the following week, the Campbellites showed forth manly playing, but were unable to withstand the onslaught of their opponents, the score being 20 to 0 in their favor. Considering the 63 to 0 defeat of last year and the record of Oak Ridge for the past two years, this could not well be termed a defeat.

In the next two games Campbell came out on top; winning from Mars Hill 31 to 6, and from A. C. C. 9 to 0. Five games were won, three lost, and one tied.

COACH Hays' team this year, consisting of four letter men of last year—Reaves, Yates, Blount, and Gardner—proved to be another success. The places left vacant from last year were ably filled by old and new material. The schedule was not as heavy as it was last year, but the games which were played, showed Campbell to have a strong team.

OUR RECORD

After an easy win over Fuquay All-Stars, the team went to Wingate and played one of the closest games of the season. It was a hard fought game throughout, finally terminating into a 35 to 36 victory for Wingate. The next game, played with Fayetteville "Y," was just as close; 31 to 30 in Fayetteville "Y's" favor. From this game until the close of the season not a game was lost. Campbell soon revenged the early defeat by Wingate by defeating them 24 to 16 on our home court. Perhaps the most cherished victory of the season was won over Guilford, the score being 29 to 17. The Guilford boys soon after this game won over Wake Forest Varsity.

Wake Forest Freshmen were easily conquered. Last year they were the only ones to defeat us; but this year the tables were turned and Campbell outplayed them in every quarter, winning a 39 to 13 victory over them. Vass All-Stars were defeated 84 to 8. The season ended in a 62 to 15 victory over 17th Field Artillery from Fort Bragg. The final record was 6 won and 2 lost.

Something Electrical for Every Purpose

AS TIME has wrought changes in our mode of living and so many of our customs, so it has brought about decided improvements in Electrical Labor Saving Devices which lighten the tasks of the housewife of today.

An Electric Refrigerator protects the food and health of the family; a Vacuum Sweeper dustlessly cleans her rugs; an Electric Washer scrubs and wrings her clothes; other appliances, too numerous to mention, are at her command.

It is no longer necessary for the housewife to look upon her housekeeping tasks as a burden when an Electric Appliance will do the job in less time, more efficiently, and preserve her youth and beauty.

THE TRUE ATMOSPHERE OF SCHOOL AND COLLEGE

WE endeavor, in producing school annuals, to render a helpful and constructive service directed toward enabling a student staff to get out a representative, distinctive book within their budget.

In connection with our new and modern printing plant we maintain a large Art and Service Department where page borders, cover designs, division pages, and complete decorative and illustrative motifs are created and worked out.
